

Market Money information sheet

Market Money is a special currency that is available for use at the Crafternoon Tea Markets, usable on the day of issue only and will expire after the market day.

Designed so people don't have to leave to get cash out and vendors who don't have their own eftpos machines can close more sales.

Market money comes in $10 denominations and will be a different colour each market.

How to use market money: The customer comes to the cash out counter and purchases market money (we charge a $2 transaction fee per cash out transaction). Customer then purchases from you using their market money. You give real change back to them. I.e $6 product with a $10 market money, you give them $4 of real cash as change (and you hold onto the market money).

Along with cash and eftpos we ask that you also accept market money, some customers walk around the market, choose who they will buy from and then get a lump sum of market money to spend. You must give real money as change for market money.

Reconciliation: At the end of the market (before pack down) take your money to the cash out station and together we will count up your market money, you will be given a receipt for the amount taken. We will then dispose of the market money and we will pay you the receipted amount the following day once the money hits our bank account. You must wait and have your money counted. Any market money that is found after the event will incur an admin charge, and may not be accepted.

Bank Details: If this is your first time with market money, please write your bank account number on one of the market money that you hand in. If you change your bank account please let us know asap.

We will be showing around a sample of the market money on the day, we change colour each market and each valid market money is stamped with the date.

If in doubt, please don't hesitate to get in touch with us.
